The contrarian entry point

Class A units have recently traded at a material discount to the Company's most recently announced net asset value.[1] At the Nov. 11, 2026 close of $31.01 against June 30, 2026 NAV of $116.37, a buyer on the exchange acquires the underlying real estate at roughly 27 cents on the dollar of the Manager's estimate of value. Company-wide, the market values all Class A units at about $123 million against net asset value of $455 million.

Most Opportunity Zone funds take capital at net asset value for properties not yet built. Here the entry price is set by the market.

Tax benefits: defer, reduce, eliminate

- Defer the capital gain by reinvesting in a Qualified Opportunity Fund within 180 days. Under OZ 1.0 the deferred gain is recognized on the earlier of December 31, 2026 or an inclusion event; under OZ 2.0, for investments from January 1, 2027, the deferral runs five years.
- Reduce the gain recognized with a 10% basis step-up after five years (30% for qualified rural opportunity funds under OZ 2.0).
- Eliminate federal capital gains tax on the appreciation of the Qualified Opportunity Fund investment after a ten-year hold.
- Bridge. Exiting an OZ 1.0 investment before December 31, 2026 starts a new 180-day window that can overlap the start of OZ 2.0.[3] Review with a qualified tax professional.

[1] Net asset value and market data

NAV per Class A unit is calculated quarterly by the Company's Manager under the valuation policy described in the Company's SEC filings. NAV is an estimate, not a guarantee of value. The market price of Class A units may be above or below NAV and may never reach it. Market price data is delayed and provided for information only. Figures in this document are updated automatically from public sources, including the Company's filings with the SEC and third-party market data, and may contain errors, omissions or delays. They are provided for informational purposes only. The Company's filings with the SEC, available at www.sec.gov, are the official source and control if there is any difference. Market capitalization is the $31.01 closing price on November 11, 2026 multiplied by 3,961,376 Class A units outstanding at October 30, 2026, as reported in the Form 10-Q for the quarter ended September 30, 2026. Any discount to NAV reflects market conditions and is not a prediction of future prices.

Properties and Opportunity Zone designations

Property information is from the Company's Form 10-Q for the quarter ended September 30, 2026 (accession 0001493152-26-049977). Leasing percentages are the Company's estimates as of November 1, 2026 and change over time; a property is not stabilized until it reaches and sustains its target occupancy. Completed properties remain subject to lease-up, operating and refinancing risk. Development and predevelopment properties, and properties held for sale, are subject to entitlement, construction, financing, market and disposition risk, and plans for them may change. Opportunity Zone designations reflect the Company's assessment under current law and guidance and are subject to final Treasury and IRS guidance.

Based on current law, Treasury regulations and IRS guidance, and on Belpointe OZ's structure as a Qualified Opportunity Fund, Class A units acquired with eligible capital gains within the 180-day period, whether purchased on NYSE American or directly from the Company, should be a qualifying investment. Opportunity Zone tax benefits depend on each investor's circumstances. Consult your tax adviser.

[3] Bridge from OZ 1.0 to OZ 2.0

Based on current law, Treasury regulations and IRS guidance, each of which is subject to change. Whether gain recognized on exiting an existing Qualified Opportunity Fund investment is eligible for reinvestment, and when the 180-day period begins and ends, depend on each investor's circumstances. This is general information, not tax advice. Consult your tax adviser.
